

RELIEF FROM STRIKE RESTS WITH COMMONS

PASSAGE OF MINIMUM WAGE MEASURE EXPECTED TO END DIFFICULTIES.

BILL MEETS DELAYS

And Strike Will Be Prolonged As Result of Opposition of Unionists and House of Lords.

London, Eng., March 21.—The crisis which has arisen over the minimum wage bill introduced in the House of Commons by Premier Asquith to bring to an end the deadlock in the British trade caused by the national coal strike, continues.

Delay in Passage. The delay appears to be a calculated ground that there will be considerable delay in passing the measure, even if it is not thrown out entirely, and that the strike will be prolonged. The spread of this opinion has caused further consternation in the industrial districts of the United Kingdom where the suffering is already extreme.

The total men out of employment is increasing daily and it is now estimated that besides the one million miners on strike, nearly two million other persons have been rendered idle. The people in many centers daily beg the officers of the mayors for relief which is freely distributed.

Fear "Hunger Marches." It is thought that unless something is done quickly to bring the crisis to an end, "hunger marches," such as took place last night in the fishing town of Grimsby, where three hundred starving men marched to the town hall and begged for relief, will become a common sight all over the country.

In all towns of the Kingdom people are waiting for the decision of the House of Commons tonight. There is no doubt that the minimum wage bill will receive a second reading for the coalition composed of Liberals, the Irish party and the labor party, will unite in voting for it.

Trouble in Committee. Trouble will begin, however, when the bill reaches the committee stage, at which members of the labor party will propose an amendment on whose adoption they insist.

Arthur J. Balfour, the former leader of the opposition, who for the moment has resumed his former position of chief of the unionists, is expected to ask the government to give more than one day for the committee stage of the bill, which would delay the passage of the measure until next week.

Opposition of Unionists. There is another danger. The unionists, under the leadership of Mr. Balfour, have condemned the principle of the minimum wage bill and the House of Lords will possibly take the same stand and refuse to consent to its passage.

At a meeting this morning the executives of the miners' federation conferred with labor leaders of parliament and framed the amendment which they intend to move when the minimum wage bill reaches the committee stage of the House. Members of the cabinet under Premier Asquith assembled early this morning.

The railways continue to curtail their services, and in the northern part of the Kingdom all freight trains have been canceled.

Miners Owners Pleased. The mine owners appear to be pleased with the turn of events which threaten to wreck the minimum wage bill, which they characterize as a "blackmailing makeshift." Many of them contend the passage of the bill will condemn number of the less productive collieries to permanent abandonment.

Is Most Grave. The gravity of Great Britain's national peril arising from the labor war, which Arthur J. Balfour the unionist statesman characterized as passing in magnitude anything that this country has heretofore experienced, was reflected in the tense atmosphere of the House of Commons this afternoon when the minimum wage bill came up for second reading. The House has not been so crowded for years. Every gallery was packed. Premier Asquith formally moved the second reading of the bill and then gave the floor to Mr. Balfour who moved its rejection.

INDIANA DEMOCRATS WANT GOV. MARSHALL

Indiana Democratic Convention Demands Nomination of Marshall for President.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Indianapolis, Ind., March 21.—The thirty-one delegates from Indiana to the democratic national convention were instructed today in the platform adopted by the state convention to present to that body the name of Gov. Thomas H. Marshall, as "the first and only choice of the democrats of Indiana for the nomination of president."

In adopting the report of the committee on organization, the convention elected as delegates at large to the national convention United States Senators John W. Kern, and Ben F. Shively, National Committeeman Thomas Taggart, and G. V. Menzies, Samuel M. Halston of Lebanon was nominated for governor by acclamation.

Instructions of Indiana's delegation to the democratic national convention to vote for Gov. Marshall for the nomination of president is one of the principal planks of the platform prepared by the resolutions committee to be submitted to the state convention today. Party leaders declared the resolution would be adopted without opposition from any of the 1,747 delegates. The nomination of Samuel M. Halston of Lebanon for governor, on the first ballot, was conceded, but other places are contested.

The platform adopted by the democratic state convention today in its leading plank denounces the "protection tariff system as inflicted on the country by the Payne-Aldrich act which has, through artificial prices it fosters, carried deprivation into millions of homes and tended to produce conditions of unmerited opulence and undeserved poverty."

EXPECT DEATH LIST IN MINE DISASTER TO EXCEED HUNDRED

Twenty Mutilated Bodies Already Taken From Shaft and All Are Thought Dead—Volunteers Continue Work.

McArthur, Okla., March 21.—Hope that any of the three score or more men still entombed in the Andola mine were still alive was at low ebb this morning when the exploration of the workers yesterday was resumed.

During the night twenty bodies, blackened and mutilated almost beyond recognition, were found and additional bodies were located.

That the death list will exceed one hundred now seems certain. This morning volunteers from near by mines and rescue parties under the direction of mining experts from the government station at McAlester began work and it is expected before nightfall that all the rescuers of the mine will be penetrated.

The cause of the explosion has not been determined. Fourteen men were rescued from the mine today. This makes a total of twenty-five miners brought forth alive from the workings wrecked yesterday by a fatal blast and cave-in. Fifteen corpses had been removed up to 11 o'clock this forenoon.

Estimates of the number of men at work at the time of the explosion vary between 92 and 116. Twenty-four Safe. Estimates place the number still in the mine at from 29 to 53, of whom it is feared none will be brought out alive.

Ask Wage Increase. Pittsburgh, March 21.—A ten per cent increase in pay, with a shortening of hours equal to another ten per cent increase was demanded by the miners today as the only basis upon which they would continue to work in the bituminous coal fields after April 1.

ROOSEVELT IN PLEA FOR PEOPLE'S RULE TO OPEN CAMPAIGN

Colonel Elaborates on Views Given in Columbus Address and Urges People's Ability to Govern.

New York, March 21.—"The great fundamental issue now before the republican party and before our people can be stated briefly. It is, Are the American people fit to govern themselves, to rule themselves, to control themselves? I believe they are. My opponents do not."

With these words Theodore Roosevelt last night opened the first speech he has delivered since the public announcement of his willingness to accept the republican nomination for president. His subject was, "The Right of the People to Rule."

Speech, delivered at Carnegie hall under the auspices of the Civic Forum, elaborated much that Colonel Roosevelt said in his Columbus, Ohio, address, and answered in detail certain arguments of President Taft in reply. "I stand on the Columbus speech," said Col. Roosevelt, "the principles asserted are not new, but I believe that they are necessary to the maintenance of free democratic government."

Col. Roosevelt continued: "I believe in the right of the people to rule. I believe that the majority of the plain people of the United States will, in and day out, make fewer mistakes in governing themselves than any similar class or body of men, no matter what their training, and will make in trying to govern them. I believe, again, that the American people are, as a whole, capable of self-control and of learning by their mistakes. Our opponents say they are not, but they show these real beliefs by the way in which they champion every device to make the nominal rule of the people a sham."

"I have seen patience with this talk of the tyranny of the majority. Whenever there is tyranny of the majority, I shall protest against it with all my heart and soul. But we are today suffering from the tyranny of the minorities. It is a small minority that is grabbing our coal deposits, our water powers, and our harbor fronts. A small minority is fattening on the sale of adulterated food and drugs. It is a small minority that stands behind the present law of master and servant, the law of social and industrial injustice. It is a small minority that is today using our convention system to defeat the will of a majority of the people in the choice of delegates to the Chicago convention. The only tyrannies from which men, women and children are suffering in real life are the tyrannies of minorities."

"No sane man who has been familiar with the government of this country for the last twenty years will complain that we have had too much of the rule of the majority. The trouble has been a far different one—that, at many times and in many localities, there have been public offices in the states and in the nation men who have, in fact, served not the whole people, but some special class or special interest. I am not thinking only of those special interests which by grosser methods, by bribery and crime, have stolen from the people. I am thinking of men and of their respectable allies and figureheads, who have ruled and legislated and decided as if in some way the vested rights of privilege had a first mortgage on the whole United States, while the rights of all the people were merely an unsecured debt."

"To further the rule of the majority," continued the speaker, "the progressives of the republican party in certain states have formulated certain proposals for change in the form of the state government—certain 'checks and balances' which may check and balance the special interests and their allies."

"First, there are the initiative and referendum, which are so framed that if the legislatures obey the command of some special interest, and obstinately refuse the will of the majority, the majority may step in and legislate directly."

"Then there is the direct primary—the real one, not the New York one—and that, too, the progressive offer as a check on the special interests. Most clearly of all does it seem to me that this change is wholly good for every state. The direct primary, if accompanied by a strict corrupt practices act, will help break up corrupt partnerships of corporations and politicians."

"So that no man may misunderstand me, let me recapitulate: (1) I am not proposing anything in connection with the supreme court of the United States, or with the federal constitution. (2) I am not proposing anything having any connection with ordinary civil or criminal, or between individuals. (3) I am not speaking of the recall of judges. (4) I am proposing merely that in a certain class of cases involving the police power, when a state court has set aside an unconstitutional law passed by the legislature for the general welfare, the question of the validity of the law—which should depend, as Justice Holmes so well phrases it, upon the prevailing morality or preponderant opinion—be submitted to a vote of the people, taken after due time for consideration."

WOOL TARIFF BILL WHICH TAFT VETOED WILL BE PRESENTED

Democratic Members of Ways and Means Committee Come to Unanimous Decision in Matter.

Washington, March 21.—The Democratic members of the ways and means committee determined to reintroduce in the House the same wool tariff bill which was vetoed by Taft last summer. "The committee first considered a bill that would correspond to the conference report but finally decided unanimously to introduce their own bill which puts duty of 20 percent on raw wool."

Chairman Underwood dropped the bill in the basket as he entered the House this morning. The decision of the democratic members of the committee came after a few hours discussion and examination of the tariff boards statistics as analyzed by Chairman Underwood and compared with the data in possession of the committee.

Free wool champions were convinced by the chairman that a new wool bill could not be proposed sincerely because there was no means to raise the $21,000 revenue that would be lost in placing raw wool on the free list. The action of the committee was unexpected and it was even decided there should be no democratic caucuses relating to the bill. "This will obviate altogether the fights that would be made by the free wool adherents."

Wiley Before Board. Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, appearing as a private citizen before the pure food board in advocacy of a regulation guarding very strictly the use and sale of opium, morphine, cocaine and other habit forming drugs, aroused the anger of drug representatives by referring to them as "dopers." OUTLAWS WERE NOT CAPTURED BY POSSE

Virginia Mountain Still the Scene of Spirited Pursuit of the Allen Clan.

Millville, Va., March 21.—Sidna Allen and his gang today apparently are no nearer capture than they were a week ago when they rode back to the mountains after blotting out the circuit court of Carroll County.

Posses have surrounded three different mountain strongholds in which the Allens were believed to be hidden only to find that the outlaws either have escaped or had not been there at all. Nothing has been heard from detectives who were in the field yesterday and last night.

The town is excited today over a report that a party of Allens or their sympathizers rode to a point within three miles of Millville last night and placed their notice beside the proclamation the government had placed there offering a reward for the capture of the Allens either dead or alive.

"This is the notice they are said to have posted. 'To those who have made it their concern, we have plenty of arms and bullets. We know how to use them. These hills are unhealthy places for strangers to visit. In the end you may get us but we will get you first.' It is said that there were a dozen or more in the party which posted this."

FIRST SUIT FILED ON REASSESSMENT

W. S. JEFFRIS AND M. G. JEFFRIS APPLY TO CIRCUIT COURT CENT TAX REASSESSMENT JUSTMENT.

ASK WRIT CERTIORARI

Paves the Way For Possibly Other Suits Which Might Ultimately Declare the Whole Reassessment Null and Void.

While the application for a writ of certiorari filed in the circuit court by W. S. Jeffris and M. G. Jeffris, asking that the assessment on the property known as the Merchants and Savings Bank, as decided upon by the Board of Review be reversed only to the one particular bit of property involved itself may open up the way for a general demand that the recent reassessment by so called experts ordered by the state tax commission, be declared illegal.

This is the first case filed as a result of the reassessment which the more it is investigated shows how unjustly much of the property was assessed. It is known that several attorneys are investigating the possibility of having the whole reassessment declared null and void and it is possible that if legal grounds can be found to sustain such a move an attempt will be made within the next few weeks. The following is a copy of the application for the writ filed in the Jeffris case:

To the Circuit Court of Rock County: The petition of W. S. Jeffris and M. G. Jeffris, of the City of Janesville in said County, and State, respectfully shows and represents that they are and each of them is, and at all times herein mentioned, were residents and taxpayers of said City, County and State; that they, at all such times, were and now are the owners in fee of that piece or parcel of real estate situated in said City of Janesville and described as that part of government Lot Two (2), in Section Thirty-six (36) Township Three (3) North, of Range Twelve (12) East, having a frontage of thirty-four (34) feet on the north side of West Milwaukee street and being one hundred (100) feet deep, bounded on the west by a lot owned by

The A. P. Lovejoy estate and on the east by Rock River, and the building erected thereon being known and commonly designated as the Merchants & Savings Bank Building; that on or about the 15th day of January, 1912, the assessors of said City of Janesville appointed by the Tax Commission of Wisconsin to assess all of the property in said City, unlawfully and wrongfully assessed said described real estate and determined and fixed the value thereof to be the sum of Seventeen Thousand Eight Hundred Dollars ($17,800), being Eight Thousand Eight Hundred Dollars ($8,800) for the real estate without and exclusive of any improvements thereon, and Nine Thousand Dollars ($9,000) for the improvements and building thereon; that said sum of Seventeen Thousand Eight Hundred Dollars ($17,800) is largely in excess of the market value of said real estate and in excess of the full value which could ordinarily be obtained therefor at private sale; that the full value that could ordinarily be

TERRIBLE BLIZZARDS RAGE OVER COUNTRY

Telephone Operator Rescued From Building Fired by Live Wire When Ice Breaks Down Lines.

La Crosse, March 21.—A severe blizzard which swept over western Wisconsin today completely demoralized railway traffic and covering the ground with a foot of snow, did more good than harm in this vicinity. Except for the change in weather the rebuilt Hatfield dam on the Black River, whose washout caused the catastrophe at Black River Falls last fall, and the Neeshone dam on the La Crosse river, twelve miles east of here, would probably have gone. Repairs are being rushed before the next thaw.

Sleet Breaks Wires. Souderton, Pa., March 21.—Burdened by a heavy coating of sleet scores of telephone, telegraph and electric light wires went down here today.

Mood writings have been sent out by Forecaster Henry Pennywit. The police are warning all dwellers in the low lying districts to move.

Coming Show of the Janesville Athletic Club Has Good Card Booked.

Interest in the coming show of the Janesville Athletic Club at the West Side rink on the evening of March 28th is being evinced by the sale of seats by Matchmaker Hockett. The ten round bout between Kid De Munn of Delvidere and Billy Morehead of Milwaukee promises to be most lively. Both boys have many friends in the city owing to their former appearances here and both are clever with the mitts. They are to weigh in at 142 pounds. Jack Regan another Milwaukee youth who meets Phil Harrison of Chicago, in an eight round bout at 135 pounds is said to be a comer in the game. Ben Hogarthus of Chicago, is matched with Frankie Snyder of Syracuse, Illinois, the town from which Cyclone Thompson came from and the two kids at 130 pounds for eight rounds ought to mix things up pretty lively. Jack Dougherty of Madison, the referee has a reputation of making the contests real affairs and some fast work can be expected.

HOWE'S PICTURES.

In his entirely new program at the Myers Theatre, Tuesday and Wednesday, March 26, 27, Matinee 27, Lyman H. Howe will present a series of animated scenes depicting each hazard of the sea and a difficult step of an expedition that reached the highest points of the Alps. Mr. Howe emphasizes the spectacles of three mountain climbers and the animated camera in their perilous climb to the dizzy heights is the most remarkable subject he has ever presented. He declares the views surpass in every respect any of a similar nature and that in photography they are absolutely perfect, notwithstanding the conditions under which they were secured were as forbidding as good reproduction as can be imagined. The camera did its work in the midst of a snowstorm during part of the trip but the tiny negatives developed wonderfully clear. The ascent to the "roof of the world" starts with a perpendicular ride in a car of the Cog Wheel Railway of Montreux and after reaching the top platform of this unique mountain elevator the spectators obtain a sweeping view of the Rhone Valley. Then another strange journey is taken in a car of the Wetterhorn Suspension Railway, by means of which the audience is transferred from one of the lower Alpine peaks to another at the foot of which the Obern Glacier glides with snow and ice. With danger of death at every step the camera follows the climb to the higher points from which the Howe spectators look down upon a vast rolling sea of clouds far below.

The prestige attained by Mr. Howe's exhibition was officially recognized recently in a very complimentary way by the U. S. Government. One of the speakers of the great Naval Review in New York Harbor last November was to arrange greater pride and patriotism in our "new navy." Believing that this should not be confined only to actual spectators of the review, the Secretary of the Navy, Mr. George von L. Meyer, was anxious that the country at large should benefit by the demonstration. He became convinced that no one uses the power that lies in animated photography to such great advantage as does Mr. Howe. Acting on this conviction, he granted Mr. Howe's camera men the very exclusive privilege of accompanying him

FEEDING OF FOWLS IMPORTANT MATTER AT PRESENT SEASON

F. J. Holt Gives Some Good Advice to Poultry Raisers in regard to What To Feed.

At this season of the year the important thing to think of is the feed question. Upon this depends the success in securing fertile eggs. It also makes the fowls either lay better or worse. It is not how much food you are to give but what kind and when that must be carefully studied. It may seem like a hopeless undertaking to write anything upon this worn out subject, as every phase of it has been written about, in our various papers on poultry, for a long time. But I hope that you will at least take the time to look it over and perhaps there may be some few facts that will be of help to you. No hard and fast rule can be made for all places and for all seasons so that the thought given here applies to this season and not to the summer or fall.

Need Large Variety.
Fowls are fond of a great many things and want as large a variety of foodstuffs as possible. This feed must include grains, green feed, and meat in some form. The greater the variety the better it will be for the fowls. The feeding of whole corn should be stopped now. It is a very fattening food and as the fowls must not be kept in a fat condition during the breeding season this kind of feed should be dropped. Sunflower seed is another fat producer and should be used very sparingly. The best grains to feed are wheat and oats. In my estimation good full oats will bring better results if fed for the coming few weeks than any other feed you can give. The birds will not like it at first but they will soon get used to it. If you will place no other food before them for a few days. Place this feed in the litter and make them scratch for it. If the weather turns a little cold give a feed of cracked corn, for the evening meal.

Rosalind At Redgate.
"Rosalind At Redgate," by the author of "The House of a Thousand Candles," will be the offering at the Myers Theatre on Thursday, March 28. The play is a dramatization of Meredith Nicholson's novel of the same title. The new play is like its predecessor. It is bristling with action, from the first act to the last, and rich in humor and brilliant dialogue. The plot concerns a gentle old lady who endeavors to keep her two scapegrace brothers from gaining possession of an even million of money which her father left in her care. The two men have each a lovely daughter, who are alike as two peas, and it is this wonderful likeness between them upon which the author builds his complications.

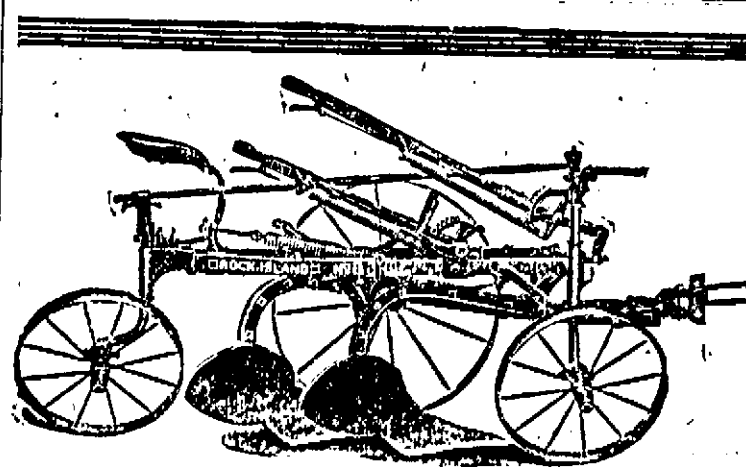

For Green Food.
For green food, sprouted oats is as good as any. This can be fed at the noon hour but do not feed it in the afternoon, for the birds may not eat the last feed of the day and thus get their crop filled properly. If you do, if you do not care to feed sprouted oats give cabbage or mangels. Either of these will be relished by the fowls. This green food acts as a filler and a tonic and is very necessary. Be guided on the amount you are to feed by the appetite of the fowls. It is far better to have the birds looking for their feed than to have them leave it after you have scattered it in the litter. Keep them hungry and they will reward you with more eggs and the chicks that hatch will be stronger. If hungry I do not mean that you should starve them but I mean that every time you go to feed the fowls, they should be waiting anxiously for that meal. Do not give a handful to each fowl at each feeding unless you see that that amount will be cleaned up by them.

Don't Overfeed.
Keep charcoal grit and oyster shell before your birds all the time. It is a good thing to put a little copperas in the drinking water about twice a week as a bowel regulator. Be on the lookout for the little red mite and the large gray louse as these two will reduce your egg yield in a very short time unless you get the start of them.

Not to Avoid Debt.
One way to avoid publicity and a temptation is to become a bridegroom. Topela Capital.

rule should be, as much as the fowls will clean up nicely, feeds in variety and of good quality, making the birds scratch for practically all food.
(To be continued.)

Note the peculiar corker, auger-like (what of the mouldboard). A slice of any thickness spreads out evenly over the surface without crimping and turns clear over, burying all trash completely. No spilling over into the furrow or stopping forward into the land.

See the World's Only Universal Plow

History tells us that long ago—even before the birth of Christ—old Roman farmers were using Plows.

From generation to generation the plow was improved upon, and yet it was more than 2,000 years (A. D. 1908) before a real all-purpose plow was invented—one that does perfect work in any kind of soil, on any kind of land.

We now have this wonderful all-purpose plow here in our store and we invite you to come in and see it.

See the only plow that works equally well on Tame Sod, Stubble Land, Last Season's Corn Land, Heavy Clay Soil, Sandy Loam, Gumbo, or any other kind of soil.

The Rock Island (G.T.X.) UNIVERSAL Plow

This plow, which does the work of four ordinary plows, turns over each slice flat and smooth and no kinking. No air spaces between top and subsoil.

The top soil lies so flat on the subsoil that water, in dry weather, comes up from below, just like kerosene in a lamp comes up the wick. Moreover, with this plow you can plow deep, if you choose.

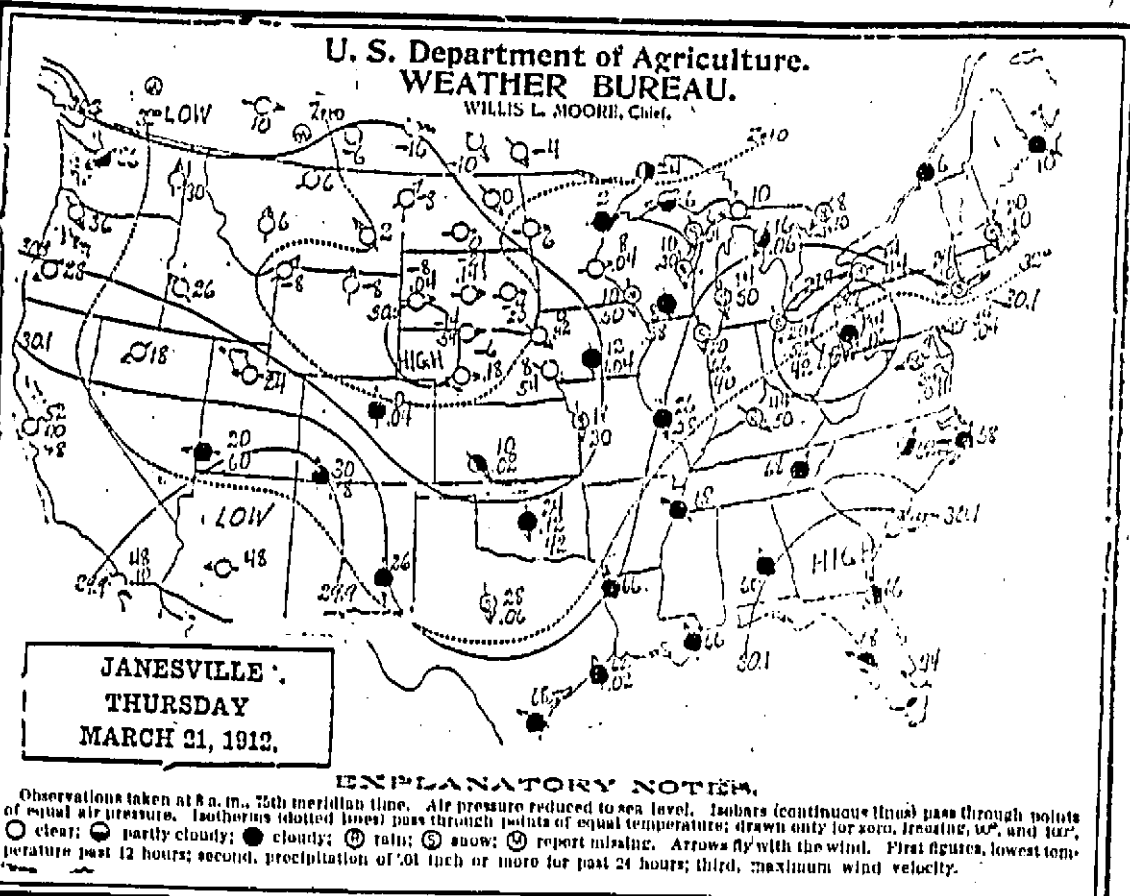

Note, also, how it pulverizes the soil. That enables you to get a perfect seed bed with less harrowing than you ever did before. And with soil well pulverized, you get full value out of your manure.

Curious as it may seem, the Rock Island UNIVERSAL Plow costs practically no more than plows which are but one-fourth as useful.

Come in, now, and see this Plow Sensation—the world's only all-purpose plow—the plow that thousands of farmers are buying this season—the plow that every progressive farmer in the country will buy ere long. Make it a point, the very next time you are in town, to visit our store and inspect the Rock Island Universal Plow.

Always glad to show this plow and price it to you whether you want to buy or not.

Fair tonight and Friday; colder extreme southeast portion tonight; rising temperature, Friday.

THE SITUATION.

With the first real test of Roosevelt's strength, Tuesday, it would appear that the third term idea has taken hold of the people and that even Sagamore Hill should bow down and listen to popular demands. The Madison Democrat urges that all parties, all factions, unite to beat Roosevelt. It says:

"It is not so important by any means that President Taft, Dr. Wilson, Senator La Follette, Governor Harmon or Champ Clark be elected to the presidency as that Colonel Roosevelt be defeated. The imperial tendency of the former president demands an emphatic check. This man today is a national menace, and that fact becomes more palpable because of the Napoleonic faithfulness with which he now has treated the American people. Senator La Follette at this juncture can do his country no greater or patriotic service than to use his powerful influence to force the repudiation of Rooseveltism. The issue really is above party and above faction. It involves the maintenance of a precious precedent created by Washington, confirmed by the republic when General Grant valiantly sought to break it down."

"It is in this spirit that the democrat would have Senator La Follette go to President Taft's support—should Taft not come to him."

"Anything to beat Roosevelt!"

"That should be the slogan in the present crisis and the abolition of every party."

"The Milwaukee Free Press also takes exception to Mr. Roosevelt and his statements. It calls him a contradiction in the following editorial:

"Mr. Roosevelt says: 'I am making a straight out fight for a principle. The issue is in no sense a personal one.'"

"In the next breath he says, 'I shall support the republican nominee, whoever he may be.'"

"How, in consistency and honor, can these two statements be reconciled?"

"If Mr. Roosevelt has broken his pledge and betrayed his friend because of a principle, then President Taft must be antagonistic to that principle."

"But if Mr. Taft is antagonistic to a principle which is of sufficient importance to cause Mr. Roosevelt to break his pledge and betray his friend, how could he in consistency support Mr. Taft if he should be the republican nominee?"

"On the other hand, if Mr. Roosevelt could consistently support Mr. Taft in spite of their difference over a principle, then that principle is not of sufficient importance to justify Mr. Roosevelt's breach of a reiterated pledge and his betrayal of the friend for whose nomination he was responsible."

"Any way you look at it, Mr. Roosevelt's two statements can not be reconciled. If his principle—which he says is that of 'popular rule'—really means anything, if it really is a national issue superior to all the other great national issues as to war, Mr. Roosevelt's third-term eruption and his denial of President Taft's just reward, then it should also be superior to the dictates of party 'regularity.'"

"The evident contradiction of Mr. Roosevelt's position can lead to but one conclusion, that it is no essential principle, worthy of the name, that has led him into his opposition of President Taft, but personal considerations and personal aims—the very ones that he so strenuously denies."

LOTS OF TALK.

The last few sessions of the common council have been replete with arguments pro and con on the subject of the passage of an ordinance permitting the opening of the theatres on Sunday. Perhaps it would be just as well and save lots of time if the members of the council would have someone explain the state laws to them for their education. There is a statute there which forbids all unnecessary work on Sunday. The supreme court has so construed this law to mean that the sale of liquor, the opening of the theatres, even baseball games are unnecessary work. Consequently a misdemeanor and punishable by a fine. It is not possible the common council believe their powers go so far as to declare Janesville outside the pale of the state law, and that the passage of such an ordinance would really permit the theatre-owners from opening their doors on Sunday. They could pass all the ordinances on this subject they wished, but even with them in full force any person who wishes to make complaint of violation of the state law could do so and secure a prosecution by applying to the district attorney, or even the city attorney for aid in prosecuting the case. The question whether the council has power or not to pass such an ordinance is not questioned. They have power to do lots of foolish things but the ordinance, when passed, if in violation of the state laws, would be null and void. This is merely a suggestion to look into the state laws.

LOCAL POLITICS.

The will of the people in selecting their candidates for the offices of mayor and councilmen, to be voted on at the April primaries, was demonstrated Tuesday in a most decisive manner. Two candidates for mayor—Fathers and Cronin—were nominated; and four candidates for councilmen—McNamara, Hall, Cummings, and Milwaukee—were named. Of these six men the voters, on April 2, will vote for one candidate for mayor and two councilmen. It is up to the people to make their selections and every voter is urged to exercise his right of franchise on election day. It is an important matter to select the best men possible for the office. Janesville is now a big corporation and the voters are the stockholders who will select the managers for the various working departments for at least two years to come. The mayor holds office for six years, one councilman for four, and the other for two, the long and short term councilmen being determined by lot after election. Look into the records of these men who seek your approval at the polls and then vote for the ones you consider best qualified and fitted for the places. Do not let sentiment stand in the way of your own good judgment.

The coming special session of the legislature could go down to posterity with a blaze of glory if they would repeal a few of the state laws. Take for instance the income tax, the Mary Ann election law, and the primary law, but not too soon.

That plan to purchase the West Side rink and utilize it for public meeting places is receiving the approval of the business men about the city generally. It is a good move in the right direction.

If it would only be possible to have the whole readjustment of the local taxes repeated what a vast difference it would make to Janesville property-owners as a whole.

La Follette had something to say about the man who threw him down so hard a few weeks ago, and North Dakota listened to his appeal for revenge.

The man who planned his garden last February wonders when he will plant it and whether it will have time to mature before next fall.

This is going to be a hard winter this spring. Is your coal bin filled, and has your snow shovel become rusted from lack of use?

WILL ENLIGHTEN SOUTH ON DANISH CO-OPERATION.

Dr. Maurice Egan, United States Minister to Denmark, returning to America to give lectures, Copenhagen, March 21.—Dr. Maurice Egan, United States Minister to Denmark, left today for America for the purpose of giving a series of lectures in the Southern States. Dr. Egan's trip is in response to a special invitation from the Southern Commercial Society to speak before the commercial bodies in a number of the leading cities of the South on the subject of "Danish Agricultural Co-operation and Conservation."

The position of Denmark as a school for the study of scientific agriculture is becoming more important every year and Dr. Egan has made a study of the methods which have made Denmark a leader in co-operative agriculture, especially the effect of the plan on the cost of living. It is his belief that the remedy for the present shortage in the food supply and the consequent high cost of living is to be found only in perfect co-operation among the farmers, aided by the hearty support of the national and state governments.

Prosecuting Attorney Boomhower has secured the services of a prominent criminal lawyer to assist him in unraveling the mystery. He declares he has unearthed additional facts in the case which, when presented at the trial, will greatly strengthen the prosecution. Nearly one hundred witnesses already have been subpoenaed to testify at the trial.

Each of the victims was attended by Dr. Macgregor and later removed for treatment to a hospital in London, Ont., where the deaths occurred. In this hospital Miss Marguerite Gibbs, said to be a friend of Dr. Macgregor, was employed as a nurse. Following the coronor's jury verdict in the case of Albert Sparling, Miss Gibbs was arrested and bound over on a charge of accessory after the fact. In the cases of Mrs. Sparling and Dr. Macgregor indictments charging first degree murder were returned.

It is understood that Mrs. Sparling and Dr. Macgregor are to be tried first for the alleged murder of Cyril Sparling, the fourth and last of the family to die under mysterious circumstances. Little has been made public concerning the evidence upon which the indictments were based. Even the probable motive that may have resulted in the alleged slaying of the father and three sons can only be guessed at by outsiders, though there is a general disposition to connect it with the fact that the victims carried life insurance and the policies were written by the father of Dr. Macgregor, a retired life insurance agent living in London, Ont.

Each of the victims was attended by Dr. Macgregor and later removed for treatment to a hospital in London, Ont., where the deaths occurred. In this hospital Miss Marguerite Gibbs, said to be a friend of Dr. Macgregor, was employed as a nurse. Following the coronor's jury verdict in the case of Albert Sparling, Miss Gibbs was arrested and bound over on a charge of accessory after the fact. In the cases of Mrs. Sparling and Dr. Macgregor indictments charging first degree murder were returned.

It is understood that Mrs. Sparling and Dr. Macgregor are to be tried first for the alleged murder of Cyril Sparling, the fourth and last of the family to die under mysterious circumstances. Little has been made public concerning the evidence upon which the indictments were based. Even the probable motive that may have resulted in the alleged slaying of the father and three sons can only be guessed at by outsiders, though there is a general disposition to connect it with the fact that the victims carried life insurance and the policies were written by the father of Dr. Macgregor, a retired life insurance agent living in London, Ont.

Prosecuting Attorney Boomhower has secured the services of a prominent criminal lawyer to assist him in unraveling the mystery. He declares he has unearthed additional facts in the case which, when presented at the trial, will greatly strengthen the prosecution. Nearly one hundred witnesses already have been subpoenaed to testify at the trial.

DENIES RUMOR THAT HE WILL MAKE RACE AS AN INDEPENDENT

H. L. Maxfield Says Report He Was To Become Candidate for Mayor On Independent Ticket, Is Untrue.

Harry L. Maxfield stated this afternoon that the report that he was contemplating entering the mayoralty race as an independent candidate was absolutely false. He said: "This is the first I had heard of this report and desire to state that nothing is further from my mind. Will you kindly state that I would not for a moment consider such a position? And also I wish to thank my friends who supported me in my recent race for the nomination."

The rumor was current about the city this morning that Mr. Maxfield had come to Madison to see what steps he would take to have his name placed on the ticket at the April election and the above statement brands this story as false.

PLANS FOR BRIDGE OVER SPRING BROOK

New Structure to Span Stream on Main Street Will be of Best Design and Permanent Materials

Examination of the plans for a reinforced concrete bridge over Spring Brook on South Main street, drawn by City Engineer C. V. Korsh, and adopted by the Common Council shows that the new structure will be of neat and simple design and very substantial and permanent construction. The plans were submitted in preference to two others adopted, one for a single span plate girder bridge, and the other similar to the one chosen with the exception that steel "I" beams were provided for instead of reinforced concrete floor beams. Its first cost will be less than was estimated for the others and the expense of maintenance will be almost negligible.

The bridge will be of the reinforced concrete girder type and will be supported on two abutments and two pairs of center piers. Each pier will carry a pier girder for the support of the floor.

The total length of the bridge will be 72 feet, not including the wing walls, and will consist of three 22-foot spans. It will be 26 feet wide, leaving 21 feet clear roadway. No provision has been made for walks as the traffic in that part of the city is very light and the bridge will be paved with brick or macadam.

A reinforced concrete railing of simple design will be placed on either side of the roadway. The balusters will be cast in forms. The reinforcing rod will protrude at either end and be embedded in the girders above and below which will be cast in place. In appearance the bridge will resemble the one over the same stream on the Beloit road, but will be of less elaborate pattern.

One marked advantage in constructing a concrete bridge at this point is that there are two leading piles for gravel and sand within forty rods of the site and all the money expended for construction will remain at home.

CONTINUE EFFORTS TO PURCHASE RINK

Commercial Club Will Own Building Providing Stock Purchase Is Made by Citizens.

Have you, Mr. Citizen—and especially you, Mr. Merchant—assisted the Commercial Club in the purchase of the rink building? Perhaps the committee headed by Secretary F. E. Lane has not called upon you as yet. That makes no difference. Don't wait to be asked, but offer aid of your own free will. It is a cause worthy of your best support. Already a large amount of the money needed to effect the purchase has been secured and the proposition is generally met with enthusiasm. There is scarcely a man in Janesville who does not realize that the rink building means to the city. During the past winter there has been held there the "Manufacturers' exhibition," the Chicken show, the Mid-Winter Fair and the Automobile show, and in addition to a boxing match which attracted five hundred fans or more in one evening, and a dozen or more basketball games, to say nothing of scores of excursions when the place was open to roller skaters who took advantage of the place by the hour-drops.

Unless the sale of this building is made to the Commercial Club, Janesville people will be deprived of the benefits which have accrued to them in the past from this building. It is something which vitally affects every person in the city for the purpose to which the place may be devoted once owned by the Commercial Club, have by no means been exhausted.

As a place for conventions and political gatherings it would serve the purpose admirably well. In fact, there are scores of uses for the building in addition to the ones experienced which would be thick of more easily once the building is converted into a hitch barn and escapes the Commercial Club—and you.

The Commercial Club will own the property, which is valuable in itself—but have you done your part? If you can help the thing along it is up to you to do so. Don't wait for Mr. Lane or Mr. Huchholz or Mr. Dougherty to call on you, but see them and offer to subscribe. Beat them to it and help along a proposition which is surely "boosting Janesville."

STREET CAR NEARLY CRASHES INTO BANK

No. 15, Derailed by Snow on Track, Runs Into Curb in Front of First National Bank—Work Car Follows.

Derailed this morning at the corner of Oliver and Milwaukee streets by snow on the track, car No. 15, headed west, swung to the right and crashed into the curb in front of the First National Bank, where its vestibule hung over the walk. The work car, to which was attached the snow plow, was also derailed as it was coupled in the rear of No. 15. This was first replaced on the track and used to pull the other car back on the rails. In fifteen minutes time the confusion was cleared up. No passengers were on the derailed cars. The accident occurred to quickly for the bank officers and employees to leave their places and avoid what threatened to be an unwelcome and intrusive visitor.

BIG JUMP IS TAKEN IN PRICE OF HOGS

Advance of Twenty-five and Thirty Cents Brings Average Price to Highest Mark Since Last Summer.

Chicago, March 21.—Another big jump was taken in hog prices today following the advance of yesterday. The heavy hogs topped the market at $7.75 which is the highest since last summer and the bulk of sales ranged from $7.50 to $7.65. Sellers were slow almost any price which they cared to ask, the shippers being the main buyers for the supply of 14,000 head on the market. A COLD, LA GRIPPE, THEN PNEUMONIA
Is too often the fatal sequence, and coughs that hang on weaken the system and lower the vital resistance. It is G. Collins, Postmaster, Barre, N. J., who was troubled with a severe la grippe cough. I bought a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and before I had taken it all, the coughing spells had entirely ceased. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound can't be beat." It stops the cough by healing the cause. Refuse substitutes. Badger Drug Co.

HEART AND HOME TALKS

Trouble as a Test.

A PROMINENT writer of today says: "Instead of shrinking from our tests and trials, let us regard them as opportunities of advancement. Like the school examinations, they open the way to higher classes, and always precede promotion."

To many of us, this throws a new light upon trouble. And, perhaps, if we would look upon some of our trials in this way, they would no longer cause us suffering, but really bring joy. For who does not like to advance, no matter how difficult the way?

Since everything in this physical universe is governed by law, since the planets swing in space by law, and the tiniest flower by the roadside blooms in pursuance of law, is it possible that in the life of man, who is the latest and therefore presumably the best product of creation, that anything can happen by chance? If the lives of all humanity were ruled by chance, what a haphazard, chaotic place this world would be. And if law rules inflexibly and unvaryingly for some things, it must rule for all.

When, then, trouble comes, it comes in lawful fashion, and we should try and discover the why and wherefore, and use the law to help, not to wreck.

What we call trouble may come to us because of the lack of some trait in our character which needs to be brought out and developed. And since growth is the purpose of all life, we should not murmur at that which makes us a more symmetrically developed man or woman.

Or, as this writer has said, trouble may be a test. It may be trying our mental or spiritual muscles to see if we are ready for some big work that waits. And we should not be children and murmur at it. School children are apt to dread their tests. They will get out of them if possible. But parents smile indulgently at the children's exclamations of protest and dislike, and know that the young folks must take these tests if they are to get on.

And when we murmur and protest at trouble, we are yet in the school-child class. And we, now that we are grown, we can't get past this test, until we march up to it bravely, show that we are master of it, and that it has no terrors for us.

And if we will take trouble in this way, the sting will go out of it. It is coming to us through some law. We are not the hapless victim of some unseen power. We are not weighted down without reason with misery. This trouble has a purpose. It is bringing us something we need for growth toward a happier and truer conception of life, or else it is a test to show our strength, or point out a weakness.

And why should we repine at these things? They are good. They are gifts to be prized. So let's make trouble turn around, when it comes our way, and show us its bright and shining face.

Barbara Boyd.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

WHEN a man will trust his wife with his money, his honor and his children and will treat her with his purse, it is easy to see on which he puts the highest value.

SOME HOT DISHES FOR COLD NIGHTS.

There is nothing more satisfying and warming on a damp, chilly night than a good bowl of hot soup. Cream soups of different kinds may be had every night in the week, and the variety not run out.

One may have tomato bisque, thickening the cream of tomato for a change, or potato with a little onion and milk makes a most appetizing soup.

Another favorite dish is:

Spanish Rice.—Into a buttered baking dish put a layer of cooked rice, sprinkle with finely cut broiled ham, or fried ham, a sprinkling of onion grated and seasoning of red and green pepper chopped, salt and then another layer of rice. Pour over a generous amount of tomato, and bake until thoroughly heated through. The seasoning of this dish will make or mar it.

Southern Rice.—Melt a tablespoonful of butter in a frying pan, add a clove of garlic and a large chopped onion, and a cup of washed rice. Keep stirring the rice until it is slightly browned and crisp. Then add a cup of tomato and fill the pan with boiling water. Cook until the rice is tender without stirring if possible, as each grain will stand up by itself.

Chicken Stew.—Cut up a chicken with a clove of garlic and two small onions; cook until half done, then add the following sauce:

Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter in a frying pan; add a tablespoonful of flour and a generous sprinkling of cayenne. When well cooked add salt and a cup of tomatoes; stir and cook, adding salt and sage, if liked.

Poached eggs are very nice for a supper dish with the above sauce.

A mixture of lard and suet makes a very desirable fat for almost all uses that lard would be put to. The soft beef fat is the best.

ALL FRUIT EXPOSED FOR SALE SHOULD BE SCREENED.

St. Louis, Mo., has an ordinance requiring that all fruits and vegetables exposed for sale shall be covered by screens to protect them from flies. Such an ordinance should be adopted and enforced in every city. Street dust is a constant source of contamination of the most serious character, which can not be entirely obviated by sprinkling. Flies and other vermin are also constantly depositing filth and disease-producing germs on food exposed on the streets and this can be largely obviated by the adoption and enforcement of such an ordinance.

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

THE ORIGIN OF TAMMANY.

By A. W. MACY.

The Society of Tammany, or Columbian Order, was formed in New York city in 1789, and has been a power in city, state and national politics ever since. Its primary object was to offset the influence of the Society of Cincinnati. The latter was formed by the surviving officers of the Revolution, and as its constitution provided that its membership should be perpetuated by the eldest sons of members, it was regarded by many as too aristocratic in its tendencies. The Society of Tammany professed to be far more democratic in its character. It took its name from a noted chief of the Delaware Indians, its chief founder was William Mooney, a native-born American of Irish extraction. The society is nominally a charitable association, fraternal in its nature, and quite distinct from the general committee of the Tammany Democracy. It takes a very prominent part in politics, nevertheless. It claims to have outlived fourteen national parties. Aaron Burr was a prominent member of Tammany in its earlier years.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

THERE is a certain type of woman, for whom all her sisters will work their fingers to the bone. Because they love her so well, they work her, my friend, quite to the contrary. Because they are afraid of her, afraid of her quivering eye, in awe of her critical mind, frightened to death of her pitiless tongue.

A friend of mine was about to open her home for a week and home party. The day before the guests were to arrive, she and her maid spent at least eight solid hours scrubbing and polishing and generally putting in order what seemed to me in the first place, a thoroughly well scrubbed and polished and orderly home.

"Why am I so abnormally particular about half a dozen old friends?" she answered my query. "It isn't for half a dozen old friends. It's for one of them. Do you know Mrs. M.? Well, if you did you'd understand. My dear, I believe that woman could see a grain of dust behind a picture in an unlighted room at midnight. If a single picture in the house isn't hung exactly straight, if there's a worn place in one of my chairs or carpets, or a single finger-mark anywhere on the point—and you know how hard it is to keep all that white paint clean—that woman will know it and talk about it for months. She can tell at a glance just what every article in the house cost from the napkins to the piano. If a gown doesn't fit just right she knows it in a minute and can hardly keep her eyes off of it. I once wore a waist to her house that was too big in the collar and I could see that she intended to speak about it. Just wait until she comes, and you'll see why I'm so abnormally particular as you call it."

I waited and I saw. After the first five minutes of our acquaintance, during which Mrs. M. roving eyes took me in from head to foot, set down my style of hair dressing as antiquated, reckoned the price per yard of my gown, decided that the collar was real fine, sighted a little wrinkle in the yoke, and made me uncomfortably conscious of every little of myself, I understood.

I think we all know one or more women of this type. We have all marked ourselves years before opening our homes to them. A visit from such a one is not a visit. It is a tour of inspection. And yet, after all, who shall say but that we need them. Mrs. M.'s tours of inspection are sometimes unpleasant, but they are apt to be healthful. My friend says that in anticipation of Mrs. M.'s visit, she cleared out a closet which had been needing attention for at least two years. And for my part I had that wrinkle in my yoke attended to the very next day.

Although we may not love the critics who lash us towards perfection, let us still give them "honor due."

But I certainly wouldn't want to be one of them. Would you?

Fads and Fashions

New York, March 21.—The fashion

able shops are making a great display of wash fabrics at present, some so glorified in appearance that they seem almost to have lost their identity. Wash goods once meant lawns, batistes, organdies, calicoes and light-weight weaves generally; but at this time and fashion have changed and the heaviest of changes and changes are now grouped with cotton chiffons and velvets. There are heavy linens with their more or less fancy weaves and flut or embroidered borders, dainty volles with a border at one side, or both, and with or without an additional center panel design, filmy chiffons, plain or point-striped and powdered all over with exquisite buds and blossoms, French macramés in black and white, yarns, with ribbon effect borders, imported plaques in madras stripes, some with the cross or cord running lengthwise, some crosswise, argyle or rather, or Turkish towel varieties, new for dresses and trimmings in white and bright leather colors, the soft rose, blue, wistaria, yellow, tan, corse and old blue tints of all these fabrics.

Bordered wash materials of all textures and weights are exquisite in design and beauty, as well as practical. Many are bordered in black and colors on white, some are embossed with velvet in black and dots, others are black-printed in facinating designs and colors and many have drawnwork borders in imitation of flut, the latter being more especially shown in coarse linen crasses and ruffled weaves.

While the background is usually white, some exquisite shades of pink, blue, rosin, tan, heliotrope, geranium and other tints are seen. Fern will be a favorite color of summer. Many beautiful gowns of embroidered batiste are in this line.

There is no end of odd designs in fancy blouses, some of which look just as if the maker had run short of material and the garment had to be pieced out with other goods and patched together with scraps of odd hues. Persian designs with red in combination with soft light shades are used with plain white and give a stunning effect. Sometimes the upper yoke of the design forms a sort of yoke with the entire lower waist and sleeves of plain white material. Blue over white is a favorite color scheme.

Some of the new dress gowns are really neat holsters, resplendent with low, shaggy and beads. They are elaborately designed to suggest the glider of the stage dancer, but are not over-glamorous when worn with the dark gown of simple lines. A good device in making over the last year's dress is to use the little holers of embroidery. It will make an old waist look very smart. Oriental embroideries may be used in this way to good advantage.

The most economical and satisfactory way of obtaining a hand-embroidered shirtwaist is to purchase a ready-made waist with machine-embroidered design and work over the embroidery by hand, thus saving stamping, padding and making in the waist. A blouse embroidered in this way is just as truly hand-embroidered, with the added advantage of being quickly and accurately done.

Fashion is going back to a liberal use of the broad family, many passe-montre and beaded effects, velvet ribbons, fringes, buttons, contrasting fabrics and all the old-time arrangements of these trimmings. The trimmings that are favored for evening wear are those elaborated with crystal and pearl beads and brilliants, white being the leading shade. Color is usually introduced in the form of floral motifs made of pale-tinted chiffon, or even satin.

Edge trimmings, consisting of strong rhinestones, pearls or crystal beads, are among the favorite trimmings for evening and dinner dresses. The cut-out necks and tunics are edged with trimmings of this character. Another novelty on the scene is the floral trimmings. In one effect, regular ribbons of a silk cord or natural ribbons to which are attached at regular intervals small roses of white or colored chiffon, frequently veiled in metal gauze. These are usually selected to match the garments and bindings showing similar floral motifs.

Fringes are seen in all varieties. The beaded fringes and gold and silver ball fringes are for evening garments, while the silk cord and the ball drop varieties are for day wear. There are cotton fringes and ball drops of all kinds in white and champagne tints.

New open and other fancy braids are in black, black and white, silver gray, eery and tan, and are in lace, curly and straight, and are they decayed no more weight than the ordinary braid or tresson lace which they imitate, and they have the great advantage of added durability. There are also fringed braids and fancy rattail cords in colors and ball edgings in pastel tints and in gilt mixtures, all of which will prove delightful trimmings on dressy costumes.

There will be some braiding done on white and dark-colored dresses and suits in soutache cords and narrow tubular braids. Braid ornaments of all kinds, such as frogs, pendants and tassels, are seen. Black silk variations are for early spring and white cotton for late spring and summer. White cotton ornaments will also be dyed to match the dresses or suit of linen, Terry cloth, etc. Cotton pendant ornaments, cords, buttons and drop fringes are seen which have a covering of acrylic cloth. They are in white and champagne.

The extensive use of white in dress fabrics of cotton and wool for spring has brought white accessories into high favor, particularly in bags and belts. The black-and-white effect is also very fashionable again for spring, and in fabrics of silk, wool, and cotton is carried out in alternate stripes, and in strong contrasts in novelty weaves and designs.

There is a strong tendency toward the use of separate waists and skirts, and toward resuming the normal waist line. For this reason belts will be small and will be an important accessory, some being unbordered on silk with metal threads, and many in oriental designs.

A very handsome belt is of patent leather, scarcely over an inch wide, with a graduated band of black chevron fringes. It fastens in front with two large round silver buttons. Other narrow belts are in plain styles in leather and fancy elastic combined. These have narrow buckles, many in the black and white effects. Some have a slightly dipped effect.

Waist belts are narrow, in plain white or in black and white effects, finished with pearl buttons. Those of white silk with a round pearl buckle will be favorites. One very pretty belt is of white marquisette on a heavy foundation, trimmed with Russian embroidery and a fringe of black and white fringe.

Indian and Mexican embroideries are used to great effect for decorating handsome linen frocks.

UP-TO-DATE HOUSEKEEPING.

Home Dainties for Teas and Receptions—Punch and Fricassee.
By Alice E. Whitaker.

So much dependence is made on package wafers and cookies at teas that it is a genuine pleasure to be offered something that bears the mark of the home cook. A number of recipes for such dainties are given as a jog to the memory when deciding what to serve next time.

Asterisks are not difficult to make. Beat the whites of one egg with one quarter cup of powdered sugar, rolled and sifted before measuring. If there are any lumps, add a few drops of vanilla and drop in teaspoonfuls on a sheet of paper laid on an inverted dropping pan. Set in a very slow oven to dry for one hour. If the wafers are used light but one burner and turn it down to a mere heat.

Walnut wafers are another good home made dainty. Break two eggs into a bowl, add one cup of sugar and beat smooth, add one cup of chopped English walnuts and three-quarters cup of sifted flour. Beat hard and drop in teaspoonfuls on a buttered pan leaving some space between each. Bake in a rather quick oven.

Oatmeal wafers are always acceptable. Cream one-quarter cup of butter with one-quarter cup of sugar, add the yolks of two eggs and beat hard. Mix two cups of oatmeal with four level teaspoonfuls of baking powder and a salt spoonful of salt. Add to the first mixture and fold in the whites of two eggs beaten very stiff. Drop in teaspoonfuls on a buttered tin leaving space between to spread. Bake in a slow oven.

Scotch bread, which might as well be called cake, is so rich that a very small portion is sufficient. It is at its best when about a week old and should never be eaten soon after it is baked.

It is not as good, or true to name when made with granulated sugar as with soft light brown sugar. Rub one-half cup of the sugar with one cup of butter then work and knead in two cups of sifted bread flour; a rounding tablespoon more may be required. Set in a cold place or in the ice box until well chilled then roll each third inch thick, scatter some caraway seeds over the top and press them in lightly. Bake in a slow oven until well baked through; it will be necessary to watch them closely.

Little maple sugar biscuits are something of a novelty. Sift four level teaspoonfuls of baking powder with two cups of flour. Rub a slightly rounding tablespoonful of butter into the flour and mix with about three-quarters cup of milk, or a little more as needed to make a soft dough that can be handled.

Stir in half a cup of maple sugar cut as fine as French peas and roll out not over an inch thick. Cut in two-inch rounds, bake about twelve minutes and serve fresh. These biscuits may be made even smaller for teas.

For a good punch bring to the boiling point six cups of boiling water mixed with two cups of sugar, then cool. Add one cup of syrup drained from preserved strawberries, peaches or other rich fruit preserve.

Punch one cup of chopped ice in the punch bowl, turn on the liquid, add one-half cup of preserved strawberries and a few candied cherries cut in halves. Or add fresh strawberries and add more water if the punch seems too strong. Do not try to make a punch without heating the sugar and water together.

Ingenious Spider Web.
Spiders have a number of ingenious ways of alluring and catching their prey. A writer describes an American spider which haunts evergreen trees, and snares its dinner by means of a kind of lasso. The web of the spider is triangular in form. Two corners of the triangle are attached to twigs, but the other corner, which ends in a single thread, is held by the spider, perched on a neighboring twig. When a fly strikes the web the spider loosens his hold and the elastic threads instantly entangle the victim.

MOTHERHOOD SUGGESTIONS

Advice to Expectant Mothers

The experience of Motherhood is a trying one to most women and marks distinctly an epoch in their lives. Not only woman in a hundred is prepared or understands how to properly care for herself. Of course nearly every woman nowadays has medical treatment at such times, but many approach the experience with an organism unfitted for the trial of strength, and when it is over her system has received a shock from which it is hard to recover. Following right upon this comes the nervous strain of caring for the child, and a distinct change in the mother results.

There is nothing more charming than a happy and healthy mother of children, and indeed child-birth under the right conditions need be no hazard to health or beauty. The unexplainable thing is that, with all the evidence of shattered nerves and broken health resulting from an unprepared condition, and with ample time in which to prepare, women will persist in going blindly to the trial.

Every woman at this time should rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism.

In many homes once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy and strong.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (Confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Dandruff Causes Scalp Itching
Clogs the pores of the scalp, prevents the hair from obtaining proper nourishment—causes it to fade and eventually to fall out. And besides, it's itching and annoying to have your scalp itching and burning all the time.

If you want to get rid of the Dandruff germ—to stop the annoying itching and burning—to have a really clean and healthy scalp, get a bottle of HAY'S HAIR HEALTHY—day—prove to yourself what a satisfaction it is to have hair health.

Your money-back if not satisfactory. $1.00 and 50c at Drug Stores or direct upon receipt of price and dealers name. Send 10c for trial bottle.—F. H. Hay & Sons, Co., Newark, N. J. SMITH, DRUG CO., MCGUE & BUSS, BAKER, SHERER, BADGER DRUG CO., PEOPLE'S DRUG CO.

This Will Stop Your Cough in a Hurry

Save 22 by Making This Cough Syrup at Home.

This recipe makes a pint of better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. A few doses usually conquer the most obstinate cough, stops even whooping cough quickly. Simple as it is, no better remedy can be had at any price.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with 12 pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 24 ounces of Pinex (this costs worth) in a pint bottle. Add the Sugar Syrup. It has a pleasant taste and lasts a family a long time. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. Like a good tonic effect, braces up the appetite, and is slightly laxative, too, which is helpful. A handy remedy for hoarseness, croup, bronchitis, asthma and all throat and lung troubles.

The effect of pine on the membranes is well known. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norwegian white-pine extract, and is rich in gualacol and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

This Pinex and Sugar Syrup recipe has attained great popularity throughout the United States and Canada. It has often been imitated, though never successfully.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

LIVE STOCK SPECIAL WILL START MONDAY

Will Leave Dodgeville and Stop At Points in Fourteen Counties.

The "livestock special," to stimulate greater interest in livestock farming, will start next Monday at Dodgeville, Iowa county, and will traverse Grant, Iowa, Dane, Sauk, Columbia, Juneau, Monroe, La Crosse, Trempealeau, Rock, Walworth, Washington, Fond du Lac and Dodge counties. Representative specimens of the Percheron and Clydesdale breeds will be carried in the livestock car for the purpose of exhibiting desirable draft types.

In the ten states having stallion registration boards, of which Wisconsin is one, there is, according to well authenticated reports, but one good draft sire for every seven hundred and twenty-four horses, while in the whole United States there is but one purebred draft animal to every one hundred and sixty-seven horses found on the farms and ranches. During the last ten years Wisconsin has made much progress in horse breeding. In 1900, according to government reports, the valuation of cattle in Wisconsin was greater than that of horses, but in 1910 this situation reversed. The valuation of horses in the last ten years increased one hundred per cent while that of cattle increased but forty-three percent. In 1910 a small Holstein county in Wisconsin sold $200,000 worth of livestock, as a result of cooperation and organization. Five counties have organized horse-breeder's clubs.

On the "livestock special," Dr. A. S. Alexander, who has charge of the registration of stallions in Wisconsin, will be one of the speakers, and will be assisted by practical horsemen including L. P. Martiny, president of the Wisconsin Livestock Breeder's association, and David Harris of St. Croix county.

RESIGNS PASTORATE FOLLOWING MEETING

The Rev. J. A. Bergh Resigns As Pastor of Luther Valley Church of Rock County.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Orfordville, Wis., March 21.—A meeting of more than passing interest was held at the East Luther Valley church, five miles southeast of here, on Monday of this week. The meeting was a large one, and was called to discuss a resolution touching the relation between the two Luther Valley churches and their pastors. The resolution had been drafted by the Rev. J. A. Bergh, and after being adopted by the congregation at its annual meeting in January, was sent to the Luther Valley church of Orfordville and its pastor, the Rev. O. J. Kvato. The resolution has been the cause of a great deal of discussion, and several newspaper articles have been written touching upon it. The greater part of the community has been interested in it, as the two churches comprise a membership of more than sixteen hundred souls.

The Orfordville church, at its annual meeting, voted to ask Rev. Bergh's congregation to take the matter up for renewed consideration, and this was done at their meeting on Monday. In response to a request Rev. Kvato was also present. The meeting lasted several hours, and the discussion was spirited at times, the two pastors being the principal speakers, Rev. Kvato advocating the rescinding of the resolution, and Rev. Bergh opposing it. It was finally decided almost unanimously (but one dissenting vote) to rescind the resolution.

When this vote had been taken, and a committee of three elected to meet a similar committee from the church at Orfordville, this in response to a request by the latter, the Rev. J. A. Bergh resigned as pastor of the Luther Valley church of Rock county. A special meeting was called for April 14 to choose his successor.

TRAIN BOY SCOUTS IN FIRE PREVENTION

Scout Leaders Hope to Save Large Amount of Property From Fire by Educational Campaign.

The boy scouts are being trained to prevent fire. The boy scout that is being emphasized by their scoutmasters is "care." Already the boys have been receiving instructions from fire chiefs throughout the country as to what to do in the event of fire and many boys have received for this work merit badges from the Boy Scouts of America. The leaders of that organization, however, realize that the boy scouts by fire prevention can save the country millions of dollars every year.

The boy scout leaders took up the question of prevention after H. King Hannan, of New York, called to their attention the fact that the average annual loss by fire in this country in the last ten years has been about $250,000,000. It equals the amount practically of the tariff duty. Representatives of insurance companies estimate that three-fourths of this loss is due to carelessness.

The men interested in the scout movement desire to make the boy scouts see what a great factor they can be in saving the property of the country. Accordingly scoutmasters are urged to impress on the boys the necessity of care. The leaders point out that 20,000 houses are set on fire every year through carelessness use of matches; that the majority of forest fires are started by the carelessness of hunters, fishermen, and campers; that the careless use of kerosene and naphtha causes many fires. Accordingly the scoutmasters are being asked to train the boys to the following things:

Watch the ashes in the furnace and see to it that they are put only in metal receptacles.

Examine chimneys, flues and stove pipes at least once a week. Defective flues cause about 50 per cent. of the fires.

Warn persons using naphtha, benzene or gasoline to keep away from gas jets and matches. One kind of gasoline will impregnate 200 feet of air and make it explosive.

Watch gas jets. Be on the alert to detect the source of the smell of gas.

Boy Scouts should never carry matches. They should never carry a lighted match into a closet filled with garments. Boy scouts are urged to see to it that the servant girl does not light the kitchen fire with kerosene.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—Yes, being a Base-ball fan has its advantages.

The "Alpenzug," After five years, Interlaken has revived its "Alpenzug," a curious and pretty spring festival. It is the procession of the cattle, with their herds-men, from the low lying meadows, where they have passed the long winter, to the Alps, where they will have their summer quarters. "Alp" is used here in the local Swiss sense as meaning a high mountain meadow, not a mountain peak.

Comedy of Errors. "The play was full of complications, I understand." "Yes, first we got the wrong seats, I mislaid my overcoat, and the girl I took finally located next to a gentleman friend who monopolized her entire conversation."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Cost of Living. "I've got to get a new butcher," fumed the distracted boarding house keeper. "This is the third time he's sent me venal to make chicken salad with, and forgotten to mix a few feathers with it!"

"TIZ Reminds Me of My Barefoot Days!"

"My Feet Never Got Sore, Tired or Chafed Now, Because I Use TIZ."

"TIZ makes me feel like a boy again. Nothing would hurt my feet in those days, even when I ran around barefooted with flower, over rocks and pebbles and sticks."

"What You Think About Gramps?" "To be able now to have feet that never ache, never get tired, blistered, swollen or chafed, or have corns, calluses or bunions, is a glorious recompense for all the other aches and pains one suffers in the winter of life. TIZ makes the feet feel young, and young feet make you feel young all over. TIZ is tried every day by my mother and I, for those bunions of 20 years, and for those corns that have added wrinkles to my face. I've tried plasters, powders and salves—and nothing has ever given the relief that TIZ has. My feet are now strong and vigorous, they never get tired or swollen. I have no corns, calluses or bunions any more—they are boys' feet on an old man."

TIZ gives instant relief and cures all foot troubles. It operates on a new principle, draws out all the poisonous exudates that cause foot ailments. Don't accept a substitute. An elderly man especially has a mind of his own's and that you get TIZ.

TIZ is 25 cents a box, sold everywhere, or sent direct, on receipt of price, by Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Chicago, Ill. Becomes known by all Drug Stores, department and general stores.

THE WAY OF A MAN

By EMERSON HOUGH

Copyright, 1907, by the Oxford Publishing Company

"But now behold the strange story of man's advance in what he calls civilization! Behold what property means in regard to what we call laws! We had two pieces of robe instead of one, a man and a woman, a wall between, instead of two suffering, perishing animals with but one common need—that of self preservation. There were two houses now, two beds, because this might be and still allow us to survive. Our table was common, and that was all."

During that first night when we slept apart the wolves came very close to our meat heaps and set up their usual roaring chorus. The terror of this could not endure, and so we came creeping with her half robe to my side where I lay. That was necessary. Later that night when she awoke under the shelter of her half robe she found me sitting awake near the opening. But she would not have me put over her portion of the robe. She made of our party two individuals, and that I must understand. I must understand now that society was beginning with a wall and a door.

At night, in front of her poor shelter, I sat and thought and looked out at the stars. The stars said to me that life and desire were one, that the world must go on, that all the future of the world rested with us two. But at this I rebelled. "Ah, prudent stars!" I cried, "and evil of mind. What matters it that you suffer or that I suffer? Let the world end, yet, let the world end before this strange new companion, gained in want and poverty and suffering and now lost by reason of comforts and health shall shed one tear of suffering."

From now, day by day, night by night, against all my will and wish, against all my mind and resolution, I knew that I was loving this new being with all my heart and all my soul, forsaking all others, and that this would be until death should us part. I knew that neither here nor elsewhere in the world was anything which could make me whole of this—no principles of duty or honor, no wish nor inclination nor resolve!

I had eaten, I loved, I saw what life is.

I saw the great deceit of nature. I saw her plan, her wish, her merciless, pitiless desire, and, seeing this, I smiled slowly in the dark at the mockery of what we call civilization, its laws and its flattery, its pretense, its misery. Indeed, we are small, but life is very small. We are small, but love is very large and strong, born as it is of the great necessity that man shall not forget the world, that woman shall not rob the race. For myself I accepted my station in this plan, saying nothing beyond my own soul. None the less, I said there to my own soul that this must be now till death should come to part us twain.

Soon now we would be able to travel, but with what and for what purpose? I began to shrink from the thought of change. "This wild world was enough for me. None the less we must travel. We had been absent now from civilization some three weeks and must have been given up long since. Our party must have passed far to the westward, and by this time our story was known at Laramie and elsewhere. Parties were on duty in search of us at that time. But where should these search in that wilderness of the unknown plains? How should it be known that we were almost within touch of the great highway of the west, now again thronging with wagon trains? If force of these strange circumstances which I have related were utterly gone, blotted out. Our old world no longer existed for us nor we for it.

As I argued to myself again and again the laws and customs of that forgotten world no longer belonged to us. "We must build laws again," laws for the good of the greatest number. I can promise, who have been in place to know, that in one month's time civilization shall utterly fade away from the human heart, that a new state of life shall within that space enforce itself, so close lies the savage in us always to the skin. This vast scheme of organized selfishness which is called civilization shall within three weeks be forgot and found useless, be rescinded as a contract between remailing units of society. This vast fabric of waste and ruin known as wealth shall be swept away at a breath within one month. Then shall endure only the great things of life. Above those shall stand two things—a woman and a man. Without these society is not, these two, a woman and a man.

So I would sit at night, nodding under the stars, and vaguely dreaming of these matters, and things came to me sweetly, things unknown in our ignorance and evil of mind, as we live in what we call civilization. They would become clear underneath the stars; and then the dawn would come, and she would come and sit by me, looking out over the plains at the shimmering pictures. "What do you see?" she would ask of me.

"I see the ruins of that dome known as the capital of our nation," I said to her, "where they make laws. See, it is in ruins, and what I see beyond is better."

"Then what more do you see," she would ask.

"I see the ruins of tall buildings of brick and iron, prisons, where souls are racked, and deeds of evil are done, and from sunk into human hearts, and vice and crime, and oppression and wrong of life and love are wrought. These are in ruins, and what I see beyond is better." Humoring me, she would ask that I would tell her further what I saw.

"I see the ruins of tall spires, where the truth was offered by bold assertion. I see the ruins of religion, corrupt because done for gain."

"I see houses also, much crowded, where much trouble and bartering and

"Then what more do you see?" she would ask.

evil were done, much sale of flesh and blood and love and happiness, ruin, unhappiness. And what I see now is far better than all that."

"And then"—she whispered faintly, her hand upon my sleeve, and looking out with me over the plains, where the Laramie was swarming.

"I see there," I said, and pointed it out to her, "only a garden, a vast, sweet garden. And there arises a tree—one tree."

This was my world. But she, looking out over the plains, still saw with the eye of yesterday. Upon woman the artificial imprint of heredity is set more deeply than with man. The commands of society are wrought into her soul.

CHAPTER XV.

They Twain.

EVEN as we were putting together our small belongings for the resumption of our journey I looked up and saw what I took to be a wolf stalking along in the grass near the edge of our encampment. I would have shot it, but reflected that I must not waste a shot on wolves. Advancing closer toward it, as something about its motions attracted me, I saw it was a dog. It would not allow me to approach, but as Ellen came it lay down in the grass, and she got close to it.

"It is sick," she said, "or hurt," and she tossed it a bone.

"Quick," I called out to her, "get it! Take it. It is worth more than riches to us, that dog."

So she, coaxing it, at last got her hands upon its head, though it would not wag its tail or make any sign of friendship. It was a wild, mongrel Indian dog. One side of its head was cut or crushed, and it seemed that possibly some squaw had struck it with intent perhaps to put it into the kettle, but with aim so bad that the victim had escaped.

To savage man a dog is of nearly as much use as a horse. Now we had a horse and a dog and food and weapons and shelter. It was time we should depart, and we now were well equipped to travel. But whither?

"It seems to me," said I, "that our safest plan is to keep away from the Platte, where the Indians are more apt to be. If we keep west until we reach the mountains we certainly will be above Laramie, and then if we follow south along the mountains we must strike the Platte again and so find Laramie, if we do not meet any one before that time." It may be seen how vague was my geography in regard to a region then little known to any.

"My father will have out the whole army looking for us," said Ellen. "We may be found any day."

But for many a day we were not found. We traveled westward day after day, she upon the horse, I walking with the dog. We had a rude travois, which we forced our horse to draw, and our little belongings we carried in a leathery bag slung between two lodge poles. The dog we did not yet lead, although the rubbed hair on his shoulders showed that he was used to harness.

At times on these high rolling plains we saw the buffalo, and when our dried meat ran low I paused for food, not daring to risk waste of our scanty ammunition at such hard game as antelope. Once I lay at a path near a water hole in the pocket of a half dried stream and killed two buffalo cows. Here was abundant work for more than two days cutting, drying, scraping, feasting. Life began to run keen in our veins in spite of all. I heard her sing that day, saw her smile. Now our worldly goods were increasing, so I cut down two lodge poles and made a little travois for the dog. We had hidden enough now for a small tent, needing only sufficient poles.

"Soon," said she to me, "we will be at Laramie."

"Try God," said I to myself, "that we never may see Laramie!" I have said that I would set down the truth. And this is the truth. I was becoming a savage. I truly wanted nothing better. I think this might happen to many a man, at least of that day.

We forced several streams, one a large one, which I now think must have been the North Platte, but no river ran as we fancied the Platte must run. So we kept on until we came one day to a spot whence we saw something low and unmooring and purple far off in the northwest. This we studied and so at length saw that it was the mountains. At last our journeying would change at least, perhaps terminate ere long. A few more days would bring us within touch of this distant range, which, as I suppose now, might possibly have been a spur of what then were still called the Black Hills, a name which applied to several ranges far to the west and south of the mountains now so called, or perhaps these were peaks of the mountains later called the Laramie range.

Then came a thing hard for us to bear. Our horse, hobbled, as usual, for the night and, moreover, picketed on a long rope I had made from buffalo hides, managed some time in the night to break his hobbles and in some way to pull loose the picket pin. When we saw that he was gone we looked at each other blankly.

"What shall we do?" she asked me in horror. For the first time I saw her sit down in despair. "We are lost! What shall we do?" she wailed. I trailed the missing horse for many miles, but could only tell he was going steadily, lined out for some distant point. I dared not pursue him farther and leave her behind. An hour after noon I returned and suddenly threw myself on the ground beside her at our little bivouac. I could not bear to think of her being reduced to foot travel over all these cruel miles. Yet indeed it now must come to that.

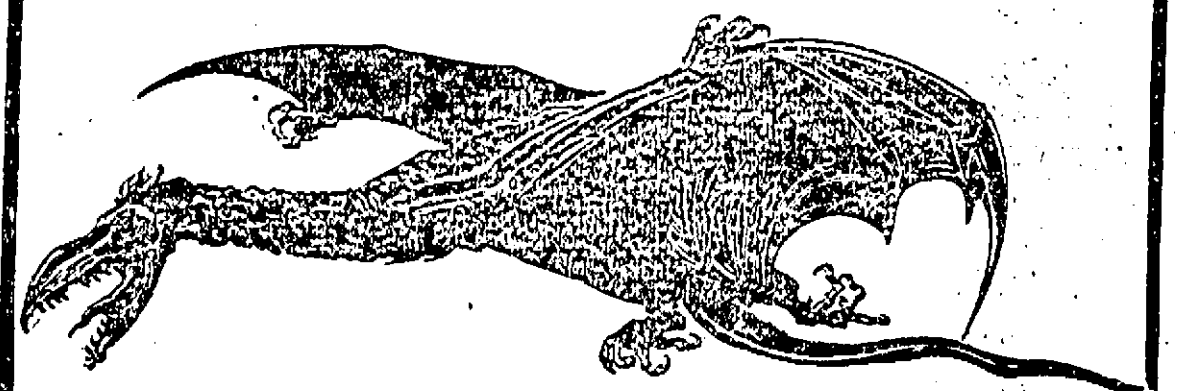

"We have the dog," said I at length. "We can carry a robe and a little meat and walk slowly. I can carry a hundred pound pack if need be, and the dog can take twenty-five." (To be Continued)
